

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

IV. A Post-script of a Letter, bearing Date August the 4th. 1694. from Warrington in Northampton-shire.

ON Wednesday last (being the first Instant) there happened here, betwixt the hours of One and Two of the Clock in the Afternoon, a very terrible Whirl-wind amongst the Shocks of Corn, in that part of Acrement Clofe, which is in the Possession of Mr. Holt, and took up into the Air about 80 or 100 Shocks, carried a great deal quite out of sight, the rest it scattered about the Field, or on the tops of the Houses or Trees thereabouts. I have seen of the Corn, which was carryed a Mile distant from the Field; and it is reported by Persons of good Credit, that some was carryed four or five Miles distant. The Whirl-wind continued in Acrement Clofe full half an hour; I my self, and several other Persons saw at least three or four Waggon-Loads of Corn all at once whirled about in the Air.

The Letter was written to a Reverend Divine now in London, from an Inhabitant of Warrington, a very Sober and Credible Person.

L O N D O N :

Printed for Sam. Smith, and Benj. Walford, Printers to the Royal Society, at the Prince's Arms in St. Paul's Church-yard. 1694.